Begin THE BEGINNING

Today, we are beginning to learn applications, procedures and methods that will have major impacts on our futures. However, we shouldn't let schooling get in the way of our education. There is much more we are learning through our experiences here at Westminster. All of our emotions touch our lives that in turn touch our beginnings. The phrase that we hear often is "today's students are tomorrow's leaders." With our gained knowledge, we will affect the future. Here is where it all begins. We can, as Westminster students, lead tomorrow's businesses, schools, hospitals, media and courtrooms.

None of us know what the future holds, but we are confident that we are just beginning. T.J.S.

Seniors

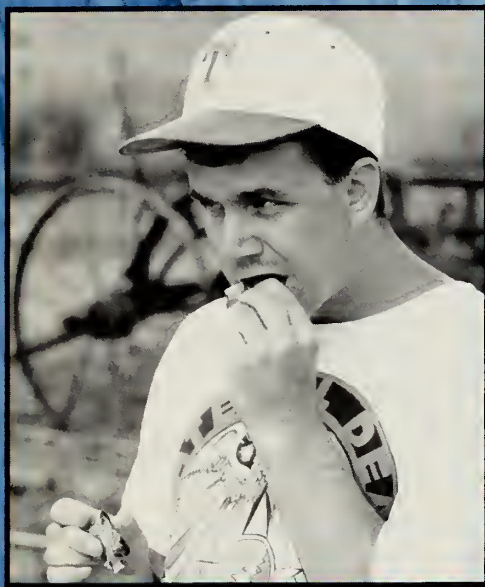

A four-year educational cycle ends and seniors embark on a year filled with interviews, applications and standardized tests. Even with all the talk about "the future," seniors are still able to walk the well-travelled campus paths with a confidence that only years of pre-registration, papers and fraternity parties brings.

Four years end much like they began with a week of picnic, parties, and friendships, culminating in a commencement ceremony which eases them from students to alumni before the familiar face of Old Main.

Showing off the closeness of their sorority, Alicia Kanary and Betsy Bish share a hug while celebrating sorority pick-up.

Though the class of 1992 and their families awoke to a cold, wet Saturday morning, Westminster College's 138th Commencement went on as scheduled — only inside in Orr Auditorium.

In rows of black gowns, graduates filed onto the stage to the traditional tune of Pomp and Circumstance. Some sat in the areas designated for their major, others sat amongst their friends, perhaps for the last time.

"What this day lacks in intimacy, it makes up for in spectacle," was the general idea conceived by Kitty Carlisle Hart, who delivered the commencement address. Reflecting on her own years, she reminded the day's graduates to do the same. She spoke of the future of the generation that sat before her, urging them to seek excellence, embrace humanity, register to vote, read the newspaper and make a marriage that will last a lifetime.

She encouraged them to rise to the challenges that lay before them, much like they had overcome those challenges in the past.

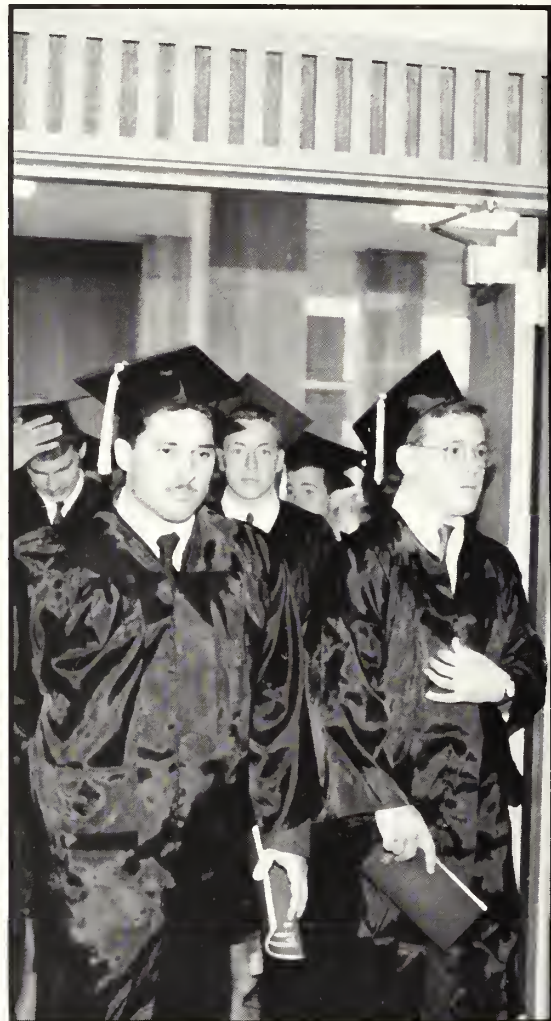

For this brief time, the class of '92 met together to celebrate the different accomplishments that will take them down different roads. They shared a campus. They walked down Old Main and took notes in the same lecture rooms. They knew the satisfaction of completing a blue book and the frustration of registration. They knew the same world-wide events. Even if they did not know each other. The graduates will always have something in common.

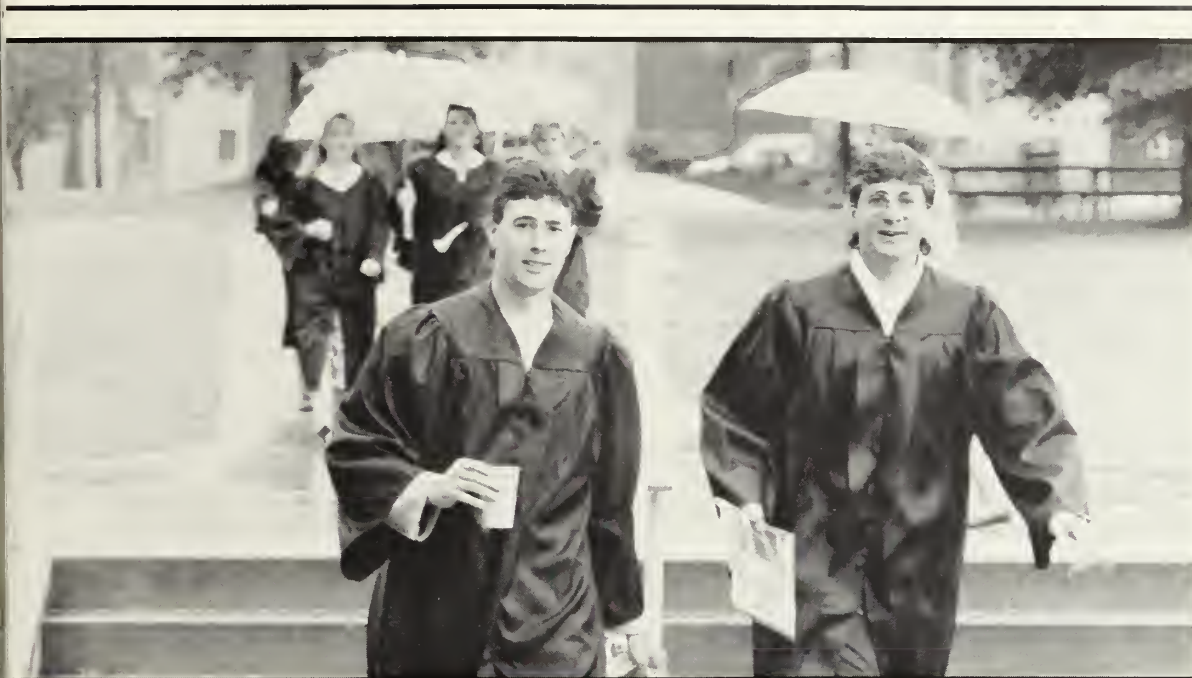

And after a one and a half hour ceremony, it was all over. By late afternoon, the sun was shining on the empty campus. New Wilmington weather was unpredictable on May 30, and full of surprises — much like life.

During the commencement exercises, Doug Crouse was elected to give the class remarks. Also, other honors included Paul Soldner, Doctor of Fine Arts; Earland Carlson, Doctor of Laws; Laird Stuart, Doctor of Divinity; Kitty Carlisle Hart, Doctor of Humanities.

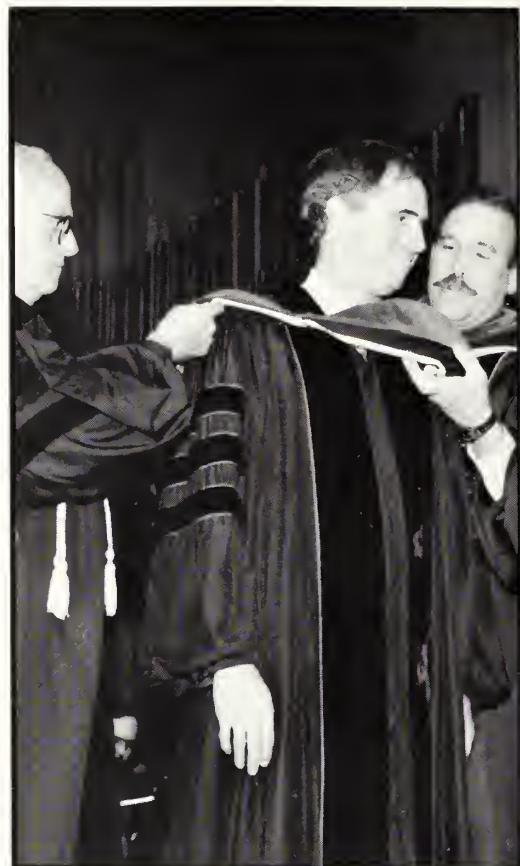

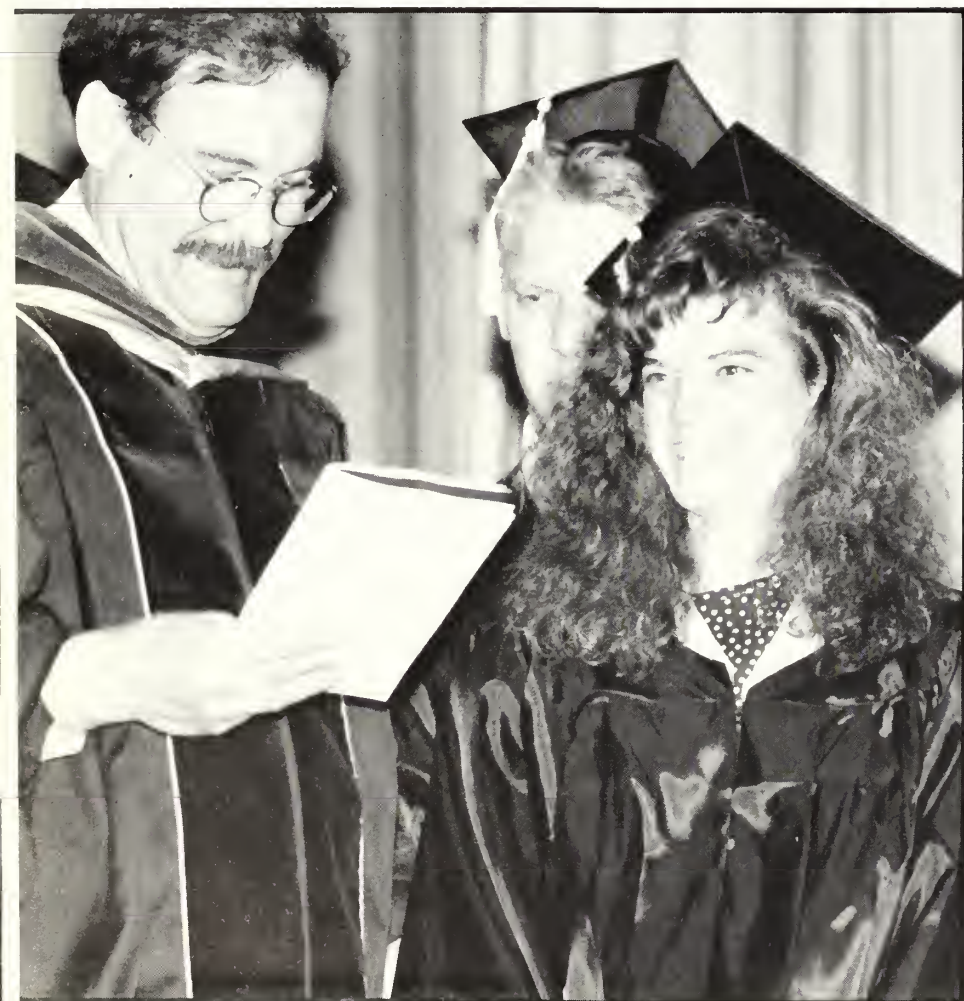

Summa Cum Laude included James Ginocchi, Lori Metsger, Candace Roth, Heather Stanford, and Brian Staudt. Magna Cum Laude included Myra Davis, Hope Donald, Kevin Dziubek, Elizabeth Geise, Lori Knerler, Sheri Mancini, Heather Mimnaugh, Traci Potter, Kerry Reilly and Megan Schweinsberg.

Student Life

THE ROAD NOT TAKEN

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood,
And sorry I could not travel both
And be one traveler, long I stood
And looked down one as far as I could
To where it bent in the undergrowth;

Then took the other, as just as fair,
And having perhaps the better claim,
Because it was grassy and wanted wear;
Though as for that, the passing there
Had worn them really about the same,

And both that morning equally lay
In leaves no step had trodden black.
Oh, I kept the first for another day!
Yet knowing how way leads on to way,
I doubted if I should ever come back.

I shall be telling this with a sigh
Somewhere ages and ages hence:
Two roads diverged in a wood, and I . . .
I took the one less traveled by,
And that has made all the difference.

The Women Of Shaw . . .

A Story Of Living And Learning In The Dorms.

The 3rd floor of Shaw Hall started out as all freshman dorm floors do - approximately 50 different people living as one big excited group. Excited by the fact that they are no longer fully under their parents' wing.

By coming to Westminster their lives had been shaken up like pond water in an eighth-grade science experiment. They are sediments floating slowly back to the bottom of the pickle jar.

They fought like only women can. They drank like only college students can. They stayed up late nights talking about their futures, men, money, men, and why macro-economics is so damn hard. In between the parties, movies, trips home, and just hanging, they found time to study.

Some found the best friends they will ever meet, while others lost theirs. Some found boyfriends. Others cut the bonds of the high school sweetheart.

Almost all of them, without even trying, found themselves.

As they settled, the 50 women became 48 and the one big group divided into many.

To use a cliché, these women loved, laughed, and cried together. Most importantly they lived together.

Fresh Start

A Bunch Of Stuff

Cars line up from Market Street to the Tub, neatly standing one behind the other. Each car, had passengers, suitcases, pillows, blankets and most had little teddy bears with an eye or limb missing. All these cars, whether Chevys, Fords, Cadillacs, or Mercedes had one thing in common; a clear bumper sticker in the rear window with big blue letters spelling out "Westminster College." The majority of these parents dread their kids leaving the nest, the tuition dollars about to be spent, and lugging all their child's belongings up four flights of stairs. Well, Westminster parents don't have to worry about the latter, thanks to Fresh Start and Lambda Sigma. This group of upstanding, dedicated, enthusiastic and friendly upperclassmen sacrifice an entire week to help freshmen move in. Why? Because it's fun. It's a great first impression on parents and new students. Of course parents think it's the best thing since color Television. Unfortunately, this service is only for freshmen. Upperclassmen are forced to move all their accumulated belongings into their new homes by themselves. After all, parents now know Shaw and Russell are only for freshmen. One could summarize the Westminster move-in experience using an old cliché: you live and learn.

Coming together in The Community on Active Role

With several volunteers under the direction of the Chapel Office, the organization is one of the largest on campus. Through its many programs the organization works to reach all areas of the community from it youth programs to its Habit for Humanity. The chapel office, along with all the other service organizations are to be commended for taking time out of already packed schedules to actually live out the ideals for which Westminster stands. Locked away behind the doors of Old Main it is easy to forget that our education calls us to act, not just to passively learn. That is what the Chapel Office calls for; action in service of God and our community in the hope of making the seemingly impossible dream of peace in our world a reality.

The Down Under Nightlife Is Still Alive

When the Campus Programming Committee moved its movie night to the other side of campus, the Down Under experienced a new spurt of student patronage. The Titan student body poured into the establishment with some nice numbers. The location of the Down Under kept its patrons coming even after fraternity parties. It's atmosphere and decor add to the college spirit. Which keeps bringing back that certain attitude of Westminster.

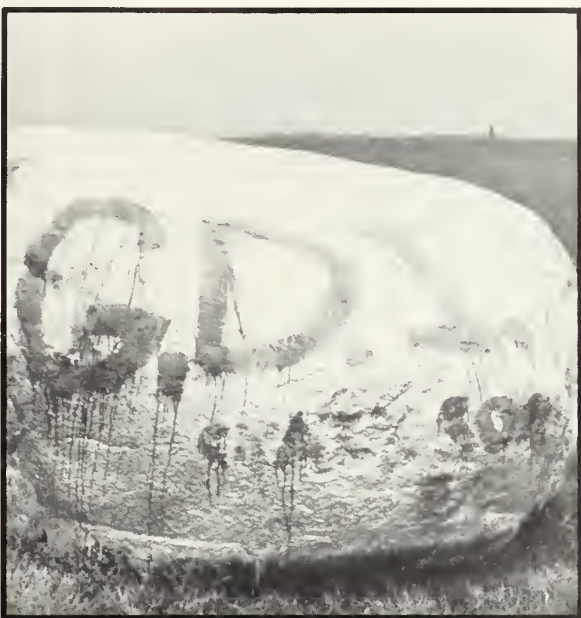

right- Enjoying the feeling of being alive, Mark Smith goes strong off of a bungee jump. bottom- Anticipating another Titan victory, junior Kyle Hertrick watches the game intensely. bottom- Showing support for the Titans, junior Valerie Jacobs leads the Titanettes during a routine.

Since the beginning of time
The balance has continued to function.
Two sides work together separately,
Uncertain of relationship.
Occasionally a balance is found.
More often than not forces oppose.
Balance, an ancient wonder,
A rare fleeting moment,
A motionless time,
A world unknown.

Homecoming—only alumni and Tailgating?

Homecoming always proves a weekend to remember and this year was no exception. The Alumni Association and the Student Alumni Association sponsored Remembering World War II events that kept the students and alumni partying all day and late into the night. The football team however, didn't oblige. The towering titans lost to Ferrum 14-7.

Meanwhile during halftime, everything came true for Alpha Gam candidate, Rachel Miller as she was crowned Homecoming Queen '91.

Finally, most alumni ended up spending the afternoon down in the parking lot tailgating. Later at the post-game party, the alumni quickly befriended the student bartenders of their respective fraternity and a spirit of rapport developed between past and present students.

Some say a freshman is obvious. Perhaps its the living in the same dorms or eating the same Marriott food that makes them seem like familiar faces. Nevertheless, from New Castle, to Pittsburgh, they manage to find new ways to cause trouble. Underclassmen enjoy the hedonistic freedoms available. A few bounced checks and bad grades later, they soon realize that freedom comes with new responsibilities like the VISA bill or travel expenses for studying abroad. In the end, underclassmen always find new ways of dealing with these old dilemmas.

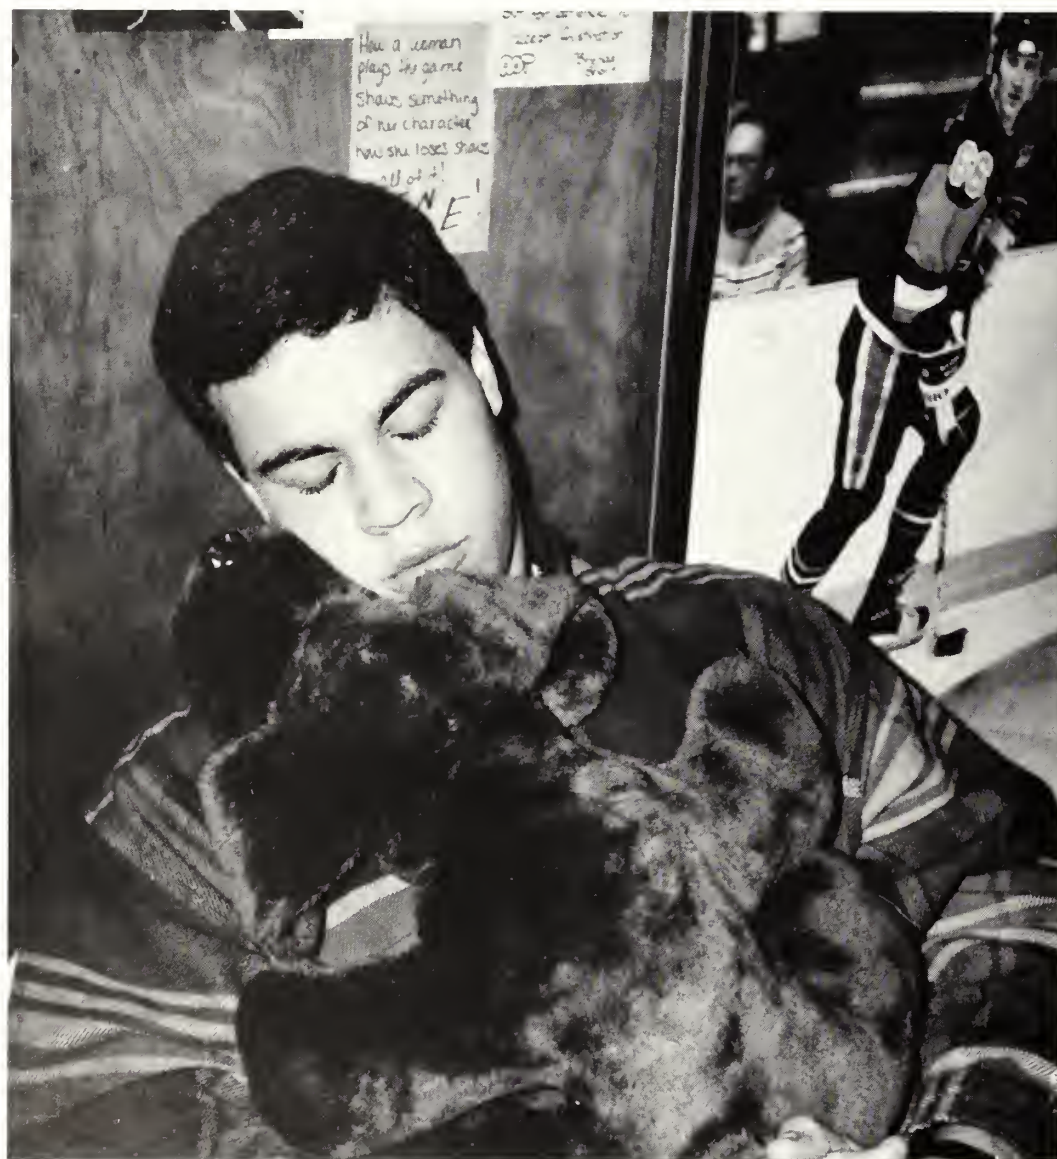

Finals Are A Source Of

Exam Tensionitis

Although they come in all formats and lengths, final exams are dreaded by both serious studiers and procrastinators. Typical test takers often fall into two groups: those who review their extensive notes, flash cards, and reserve reading and then there are those who try to cram every bit of information possible into one night of intensive studying, while furiously downing pots of coffee. In any case, no matter how well one studies, it is difficult for anyone to condense an entire semester's thought into a two hour exam.

Professors create all kinds of innovative finals to allow students a range of options to discuss the ideas presented in the semester. However, in the end, finals aren't so bad especially when the last one's over and you are celebrating with friends out of here.

Leaders And Followers

This is an age of multiple revolutions. The ways in which we produce goods, educate our people, use our leisure, relate to our fellow people, and govern ourselves are subject to continual change. New ideas developed through research are so quickly applied to daily life that even the "experts" cannot keep up with the details. Today, the individual must seek education as a means not only to wealth and status but also to understanding.

Rita Mae Brown

Westminster College presented a symposium on Gender, Race and Culture. The symposium was designed to increase the campus and surrounding community's awareness of these social issues. Among the events scheduled included guest speakers. One speaker, Rita Mae Brown spoke on the topic of "Our Invisible Neighbor: Gender, Race and Culture."

"No One Remembers Her Beginnings."

Rita Mae Brown born in Hanover, Pennsylvania and spent the majority of her life in Florida was the symposium's main speaker. She has published several books of poems, a translation of six medieval Latin plays, seven novels and a writer's manual. She has been nominated twice for an emmy.

Football

The Titan football team led by first year head coach, Gene Nicholson once again ended the season with a great record of 7-3. The titans tackled their way to a qualifying play-off spot, but their hopes were shattered as they lost in the opening round to Findley, 8-9.

Although the team did not make it to the NAIA Division II championship game, they had some shining starts that were champs themselves. Senior Rob Dancu, punter and extra point kicker tied the school record for points this year with Junior Kyle Hetrick. This was achieved by converting 5 of 5 field goal tries during the first Findley game. Later in the season, Dancu broke that tie by ending his last year with 54 points.

Five players received All American football honors during the season. Senior Brian DeLorenzo was named to the NAIA Division II second team and the Kodak college division All American. Also honored were: Matt Raich, with most tackles. Aldridge Jones, Kyle Hetrick, and Kevin Dzubeck were recognized with honors with the latter two being Academic All American.

The titan baseball team finished their season with a record of 11-18-1. The men are under the leadership of Coach Scooter.

The team having a little trouble this year, did have some over-achieving players on the field. Junior Don Nogay, sophomore Denny Thomas, Matt Sofran, R. J. Schmidt, Ryan Salazak and freshmen John Sicilia all had batting average of .313 or higher.

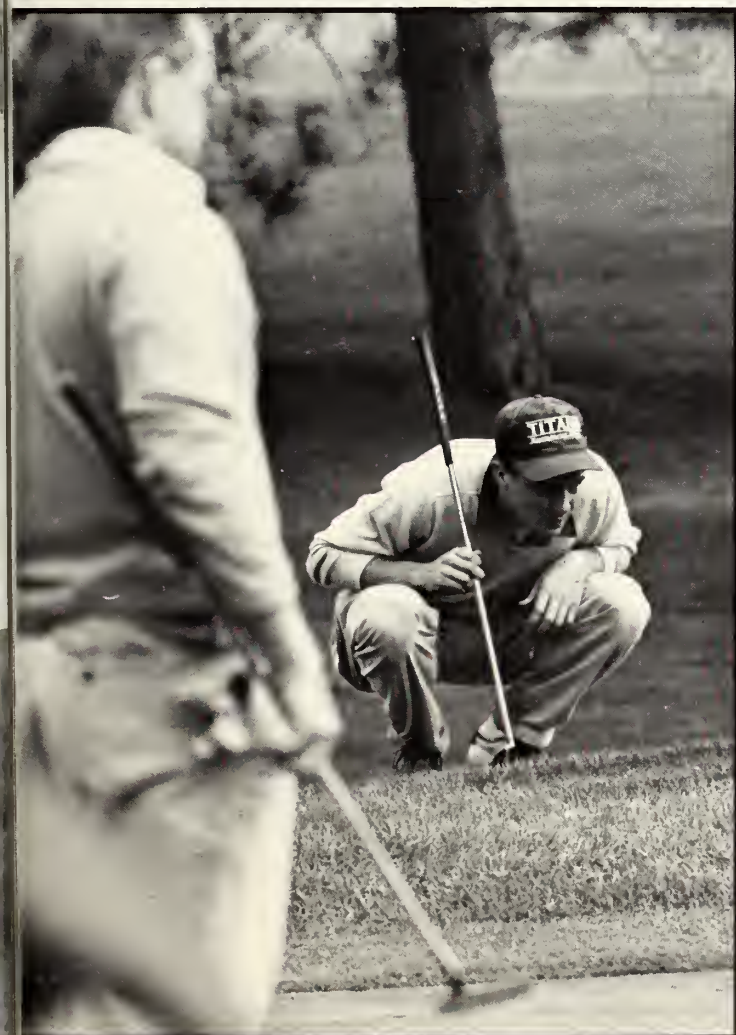

The titan golf team

The golf team finished its season by matching the team championship at Mercyhurst. The men are under the new leadership of Joe Fusco.

The team captured sixth place at Slippery Rock and Gannon. Sophomore Dan Mangino shot his third sub - 80 round to take medal honors in the Mercyhurst Invitational. Mangino also shot a 77 at both the Allegheny and Slippery Rock Invitationals.

Women's Basketball

The lady titans

The lady titans wrapped up their season with a 2 - 20 record. The season also wrapped up S. Kipley Haas's career. She is stepping down to the position of assistant coach and replacing her is Jim Travis.

The team struggled hard this season, but through it all, they did have some outstanding performances.

Senior Stacy Fleming deserves recognition for her talent. She was selected for All District Team. She is also Westminster's leading rebounder.

Men's Basketball

The titan basketball team finished an outstanding season with a record of 21-7. The men also dribbled their way to the district semi-finals, but fell to Geneva during their journey.

Named All American was Don Nogay. Nogay also received honors for being scholar athlete this season by the NAIA.

Junior Larry Ondako was selected on the All District first team. Senior Kevin Siroki was received honorable mention.

Mens Cross Country

Coach Galbreath's cross country team finished the season at 2-2.

The boy's finished 10th in the Allegheny Invitational.

The men's team gives a lot of credit to their sophomore runner Paul Pillitteri. Pillitteri placed first for Westminster in every meet and earned an all around first against Thiel.

The team put forth incredible power and effort this year. While electing to have six of their players named to the All District team.

Swimming

The Titan Swim Teams

The men's team ended their season with a record of 9-1-1 and together with the women they had a sensational record breaking season finish.

At the Championship meet, the men finished tenth overall. During the meet, the Westminster men had a shining star, freshman Jason Kunkle. Kunkle captured All American honors in seven events.

The women's team finished their season with a highest ever. Their record was 10-0. The women placed sixth overall at the championship meet. Sophomore, Kristen Zukowski topped the list of All Americans by earning honors in eight different events. She also has the highest individual finish at Westminster in the 200 butterfly. Junior, Toni Goff received an All Academic award for her accomplishments in and out of the water.

The ladies also collectively were awarded All Academic Team honors.

Soccer

The women's team under the leadership of Chris Sellers had a disappointing year.

The team played four games in the fall and one in the spring. Although the team's record was not the best, they had a great season seeing that the program is new. This season there were some high goalers. Sophomore Laura Holmes and freshmen Becky Reed share the title of most goals with two.

Coach Macky's team slid by with a 7-8 record.

Juniors Brandon Clancy, Matt Barnishin and Pat Laidlaw all made the All Conference team with honors. Freshman Gary Ratica was mentioned as an All Conference Honorable mention.

Volleyball

The lady titan volleyball team.

Women's Tennis

The women's tennis team ended their season with an 8-4 record. The great ending wrapped up Coach Irene F. Walters's coaching career. This was her twenty-fourth year. The team finished as the runner-up in the NAIA District 18 meet under her advisory.

The women managed to place four players on the All-District team. They include: Jenn Riznick, Tracey Muesleler, Tulu Kaiffee, and Liesel Cramer.

Kaiffee and Muesleler also received All-District Honors in both singles and doubles, and Cramer was honored as Riznick's partner.

Track

The track team captured its seventh straight NAIA District 18 team championship. The team had an outstanding season. Team member, Dave Sherman qualified for the Championships in the javelin with a throw of 203'11¼". This is the sixth-best throw in the NAIA. Paul Pillitteri also performed well placing first in the 1500 meter and 5000 meter runs.

Completely Different. The Philosophy Of Excellence.

Sciences

Since its beginnings, education in America has been carried on in a context of competing beliefs and unresolved perplexities. The more complex the culture has grown, the more problematic has become the role of the "common school." Although it is over a century since such schools were founded, Americans have not yet agreed on whether "common" should be defined as "equal opportunity" or "equal excellence," with little agreement on the "truth" that must be taught to the young and less agreement on what constitutes the "real." Views conflict on the nature of the socially "desirable" and the "good," as well as on the values that the school is expected to pursue and the ideals toward which it is to strive. Despite this history of concern, philosophy of education is a twentieth century product, observable mainly in the context of teacher-student-training.

These philosophies have differed in method and in concepts of learning and truth. They have set up divergent criteria in defining values; often they have differed in describing the nature of the persons to be schooled. But, whatever their ideational frameworks, they have shared a commitment to deliberate reflectiveness, a need for order and a concern for seeing education as a whole, this is the faculty that Westminster College provides for her students and their views.

At Westminster

Alpha Gamma Delta

The Alpha Epsilon Chapter of Alpha Gamma Delta was installed on Westminster's campus 66 years ago and the sorority was founded nationally at Syracuse University on May 30, 1904. Both a Golfer's Classic and a Bowler's Classic were held to raise money for their philanthropy, the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation. Junior Rachel Miller was crowned Westminster's Homecoming Queen for 1991 and during Greek Week, the AG's captured both the Scholarship Award and 1st place in the Sing and Swing competition. A squirrel is the AGD mascot and red, buff, and green are their colors. The AG's were also pleased to pick up their very first Sweetheart and it was Jeff Renshaw, brother of Phi Kappa Tau.

The Alpha Phi Chapter of Kappa Delta was established on February 19, 1931. Kappa Delta was founded nationally at Longwood College, Virginia in 1837. Olive green and pearl white are the KD colors and they are represented by a Katydid and a nautilus shell. For their first philanthropy, the National Committee for the prevention of child abuse, the KD's hold a volleyball tournament. Kappa Delta also held their annual 24-hour Dance-a-thon for the Harmarville Rehabilitation Center. During Greek Week, the KD's were victorious in the Greek Olympics. They too, also picked up a Sweetheart and his name is Tom Spiker, brother of Phi Kappa Tau.

Westminster has talent! The theatre department in conjunction with other students who have a dramatic flair produce several shows each year. Each production requires hours of tedious work from the technical side like lighting, sound, and set construction along with the performance side. The actors must form the character within their mind along with memorize the lines. Weeks are spent bringing all the aspects of a play together. The reward comes when yet another excellent performance receives the applause of the audience.

The 35 million dollar fund raising Heritage Campaign is the largest in the history of Westminster College. It began with a black tie gala for trustees and corporate friends of Westminster. Conversation may have seemed surprisingly light for part of the Heritage goal was within the room. At Westminster the Campaign began October 24 with a Campus Launch day. Blockbuster Video provided hot air balloon rides. The "Lube" catered a dinner, and the day concluded with an evening performance by Fifth Avenue. The entire day was a success. The energy needed for such a large campus wide project was present, and it is through this energy that the success of Westminster will continue.

The money is being raised for improvements and innovations of the academic atmosphere of Westminster. A major portion of the money is designated for endowed scholarships. Funds are also directed for improvements of the facilities. Almost all of the buildings will be benefitted by the Campaign. Old Main is being renovated along with the TUB and the Field House. Plans are being finalized for a new Social Sciences Center. Even the dorms are going to be improved. Also there will be more student services like an updated Learning Center and a full time student counselor. The Heritage Campaign is designed to benefit all aspects of Westminster College.

The Campus walkways lit with illuminaries and a gigantic Christmas tree in the lobby of Orr symbolize the beauty, tradition, and the depth of Westminster's Christmas Vespers Service. Christmas Vespers is held the second Sunday in December. Everyone connected with the College is invited to attend, and thus all the seats are filled for the service. The auditorium is transformed from functional to festive with candelabras lighting the far aisles. Wreaths are in place along the walls, and the Christmas trees glittering with white lights and adorned with red sashes stand at the corners of the stage. The stage is lined by a row of red poinsettias linked with tiny white Christmas lights.

The Christmas service consists of hymnals, readings, music from the bell choir and full concert choir, and the Christmas message by the Dean of the Chapel, Wayne Nickerson. Christmas Vespers offers a refreshing pause and a time of reflection for all of those connected with the College.

The songs at Christmas Vespers are not soon forgotten.

Christmas Vespers what a beautiful sight to see.

Although boredom sets in Patriotism never dies.

Before every session a role call had to be taken. A delegate from each state would saunter, run, or amble up to the microphone to say to the panel that the state was present and accounted for. Each state expressed its individuality, for example, with a catchy phrase like "Iowa the state that claims Gopher from the Love Boat as a Congressman is present." Most states were creative with their introductions except for New York which passed everytime the roll was called. New York took its time in counting its delegates.

Brian Friday was the Big Man on Campus during Mock Convention Week. He did a great job.

The Mock Convention began Monday March 16 with a parade through town. For the parade everyone dressed in costumes that were associated with the flavor of their state. California had Reagan, Tennessee had Elvis and Dolly Parton, Hawaii waved pineapples on sticks, and an Iowa delegate dressed as an ear of corn and threw popcorn to the crowd. Surprisingly most people wore flannel and jeans as the costume to represent the American Spirit. After the parade everyone packed into the gym, settled down, and the convention was called to order. Michael Dukakis, Democratic hopeful in 1988, shared his viewpoints in his keynote address to the convention. The Democrats, he stressed, are more humanistic than the Republicans. Dukakis spoke of the problems facing the country like education, the national debt, the homeless problem, and of course, taxes. Dukakis set the tone for the convention.

From 3-11pm for three days students debated over issues and listened to speeches given by the Mock presidential nomination hopefuls. At times the folding chairs became hard and the crowd quiet. Issues passed. Time passed. The decision of which candidate would be the most suitable for Westminster's Presidential candidate had to be made. After five rounds of voting Tsongas won the Presidential nomination of the delegates. Barbara Roberts, governor of Oregon, won the nomination for Vice-President. At the conclusion of the Mock Convention red, white, and blue balloons fell from the ceiling. Everyone was cheering. Confetti fell to the floor. Even though the convention is only a replica it seemed real for everyone was involved. We lived the Mock. It was reality for three days and nights. When it ended there was the feeling that it should still be going on, yet it was time to go back to focusing on classroom work. The Mock Convention was an event at Westminster that will not be forgotten.

Mike Ditka for President? These supporters think so.

Again the flag raised to show the patriotism of anxious Americans.

Holly Donald voices her opinion.

Our faithful platform works away.

Wide angle view of the Mock floor.

The Mock Convention is a model of the real Democratic Convention. By participating in the Convention students learned how the real convention works. The Convention gave us concepts and ideas to mold and form what we wanted to achieve as a group. Everyone on the floor had a vote in what issues would pass. Having a vote meant having to think about issues and realizing what the issues would bring forth for the country. The Mock Convention provided hands on learning about the United States political system. The ability of everyone to take part as a delegate, a possible candidate, or an executive committee member is what made the Convention worthwhile. Everyone had a role to fulfill.

Go Ditka! Can he do for the country what he did for the Bears?

From studying to partying there's never a dull moment at the 'Minster! Thanks to many campus organizations, we as a student body are provided with a plethora of thing to do, and see. Westminster has proven itself to be a very special place, not just to me, but to everyone who makes the 'Minster' their home.

15 June.

When I Took The Position Of Editor-In-Chief, I Didn't Realize What I Was Getting Into. When Lisa Oliver Was The Previous Editor, She Made It Look Good. I Didn't Have A Clue. I Knew Little About This, But Not Enough. I Studied All Summer Long. However, I Never Expected It To Be Rough And I Mean Rough. Every Month, There Was Something New To Adventure. It Was One Big Escapade (Tim, Ha Ha Ha).

This Book Simply Would Not Have Happened Without The Assistance Of David Swerdlow And Tony Kincade, The Driving Force Behind Much Of This. When There Was Pressure, Their Efforts Were Unmatched.

Many May Wonder Why The Majority Of The Photos Do Not Have Captions. While I Believe In The Saying That "A Picture Can Tell 1000 Words."

The Whole And I Mean Big Staff Was Excellent. I Would Like To Thank Everyone Who Contributed Their Words, Pictures, Organization Or Keen Graphic Eye To This Book. You Are All Blessed With Talents And You Know How To Cultivate Them.

The Theme "Begin The Beginning," Came Into A Realization For Me When I Realize That I Went Through Every Possible Emotion That Existed With This Book And Year. I Believe That It Describes What One Can Find Throughout Their College Career.

These Individuals Need To Be Thanked:

1. Dave M.
2. The Greek Girls
3. Katy B.- I Understand Now!!
4. Rob & Maureen - Yes!
5. Keith - Thanks
6. Lisa O.
7. Tim & Shawn Van Dyke — You Both Are It.
8. Tom- Even Though Miles Away, You Are A Major Contribution To This Book, The Literary Magazine, And The Mock Convention. I Respect You.

If This Book Isn't Up To Satisfaction Of That Individual, Then I Will Accept Full Responsibility. My Only Request Is That You Get Involved With A Publication Such As The Argo.

Attitude.

Sincerely,

T. J. Sesko
